On September 23, world leaders will convene for a UN summit on the climate crisis. Numerous such gatherings have occurred in recent years.

Time and again, an ambitious global agreement to dramatically reduce global warming pollution has been scuttled because “there’s no way to pay for it.”

There is a way to pay for it: The Robin Hood Tax.

There is already a Robin Hood Tax bill in Congress — HR 1579, The Inclusive Prosperity Act — that could raise up to $350 Billion a year thru a tiny sales tax on each Wall Street trade.

The bill calls for the new revenues to be used solely for critical human needs, one of the most vital being the protection of our environment with action on climate crisis.

Please join us. The Robin Hood Tax on Wall Street could provide funding for Global Climate Change Relief on a scale that would make real solutions possible.
